Two Men Wounded in Shooting

YAN BUREN, Mo. (AP)—Two Van Buren men were wounded in a double shooting yesterday, one critically and the other superficially, the highway patrol said.

Troopers said Elvin Brame, 25, was hospitalized in Poplar Bluff with a shotgun wound in the groin. Robert Eberhardt, 35, was treated for flesh wounds in the abdomen.

Brame wounded Eberhardt after the two had been drinking heavily, the patrol said.

Later Brame, carrying a pistol, tried to force his way into the home of his brother-in-law, Everett Williams, 40, the patrol said, and was shot by Williams.

Officers said Brame also was involved in two car collisions and left the accident scenes before patrolmen arrived.

Nationalists Sink Chinese Gunboats

TAOPIA (AP)—Nationalist Chinese warships sank three out of four Communist gunboats in a 10-minute engagement off the Red China coast today, navy headquarters said.

It said the action started off Tachiang Bay, 45 miles north of Quemoy. The headquarters said one Red gunboat succeeded in escaping.

It claimed the Nationalist warships were unscathed.

Arkansas Congressmen Head More Important Committees Than Any Other Single State

Arkansans in Washington
By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas, with just eight members of Congress, now can boast chairmanships of four Congressional standing committees—more than any state, regardless of size.

These chairmanships give Arkansas a powerful voice in both the House and Senate. Committee chairmen are powerful men in their committees. And committees do most of the real legislative work.

Arkansas got its fourth chairmanship just recently when Rep. Mills (D) took over the House Ways and Means Committee upon the death of Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.).

Other Arkansas chairmen are Sens. McClellan (D), chairman of the Senate Government, Operations and Investigations Committee, and Fulbright (D), chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, and Rep. Harris (D), chairman of the House Commerce Committee.

Powerful as Arkansas' voice now is, the state does not swing the weight in Congress that neighboring Texas does. Texas has both Speaker Rayburn (D) of the House and Democratic Leader Johnson (D) of the Senate in addition to two House committee chairmen.

North Carolina has three House committee chairmen and a few other states have two. No state, except Arkansas, has two Senate committee chairmen.

Arkansas' Congressional position is something which state leaders likely will consider in event any third party talk becomes serious in 1960.

The point is that should Arkansas join other Southern states in a bolt from the Democratic party, Arkansas senators and representatives might lose those coveted top committee posts.

The matter also could be a factor in an expected reappointment of Arkansas' Congressional districts in 1961 or 1962.

As matters now stand, it looks as if Arkansas will lose two of its six House seats after the 1960 census. So the state legislature will have the task in 1961 or 1962 of deciding how to redistrict the

Lower Supports on Farm Prices to Be Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration apparently is preparing to ask Congress to set lower minimum price support levels for all farm products now having a legal minimum of 75 per cent parity.

The new minimum would be 60 per cent of parity, which is the price goal of federal farm programs.

Products now having the 75 per cent minimum include the basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and peanuts—as well as dairy products, honey, and turkeys.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson already has stated a 60 per cent minimum would be sought for the basic crops. So far, he has not publicly stated what the administration's position will be regarding the other commodities. His aides merely say the matter has been put up to the White House for a decision.

But leaders of some of the big farm organizations say they have been informed by department officials that the administration will seek 60 per cent parity floors clear across the board, except in the case of those commodities which, under present law, may be supported between zero and 90 per cent.

In this latter class are oats, rye, barley, sorghum grain, soybeans, flaxseed, cottonseed, dry peas, and the like.

Double Murder at Little Rock on Christmas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Negro couple's Christmas reconciliation flared into a fresh argument yesterday and ended in a double murder.

Coroner Howard Dishongh said Jeff Holmes, 48, apparently shot his wife Willie Lee, 32, after she had slashed his throat with a pocket knife.

The coroner ruled the slaying double murder.

The bodies were discovered by a neighbor who spotted them through an open door. Dishongh said Holmes was lying face down on a bed with a .32 caliber pistol nearby. The woman was lying on the floor, with a bloody pocket knife clutched in her left hand, the coroner said.

Witnesses said the room was blood spattered from ceiling to floor.

Police quoted neighbors as saying the couple reconciled recently after numerous quarrels and exchanged Christmas presents.

They said Mrs. Holmes prepared a big Christmas dinner for her husband.

Neighbors said they heard two shots. Mrs. Holmes was wounded in the face and hand.

Walter S. Campbell, Oklahoma Writer Dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Walter S. Campbell, well known Oklahoma writer and longtime University of Oklahoma English professor, died in an Oklahoma City hospital last night following a heart attack.

Campbell, 70, had suffered from a heart ailment for some time and this fall announced he would retire from the University of Oklahoma faculty at the end of the school year. He had been a member of the OU staff since 1915.

Campbell, who was a research professor of English and director of the university's professional writing program, wrote under the name of Stanley Vestal. He had published 24 books and edited three others and also had written numerous short stories, poetry and newspaper and magazine articles.

He was best known for his non-fiction books on life in the early West. He also was the author of several books on professional writing.

Teamster Officials Take Other Jobs

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Harold J. Gibbons, an international vice president of the Teamsters Union, said last night some Teamster officials are retaining important positions with the AFL-CIO by taking out memberships in other unions.

"I have no idea how many Teamsters have taken out dual positions and it has never been discussed within the Teamsters as being a policy," Gibbons said.

The Teamsters Union has been expelled from the AFL-CIO.

Gibbons said William A. Lee, Teamsters international vice president from Chicago and president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, kept his AFL-CIO position by taking out membership in the Building Service Workers Union.

Russia Has Own Peace Idea, Raps Ministers Meet

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians pressed their own ideas of a peace plan today while sharply attacking the Western proposal for a disarmament conference to take up disarmament.

Foreign diplomatic missions in Moscow were studying a seven-point plan approved by the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) last Saturday. The Soviet government gave all foreign delegations a copy of the proposals yesterday with the request that it be relayed to their governments and parliaments.

The plan largely paralleled letters written to all U.N. members by Soviet Premier Bulganin just before the Dec. 10-11 NATO summit conference in Paris.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said today the Monday night television report on the NATO conference by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles was "a cold war sermon behind the mask of peace."

Commenting sarcastically on the report, Pravda expressed appreciation for the U.S. leaders' condemnation of war but added: "One seeks in vain for constructive realistic proposals to back up these words of peace."

Pravda dismissed the NATO proposal for a foreign ministers conference as an attempt to ram through a disarmament agreement on Western terms. It said these terms are unacceptable to the Soviet Union because they are in no way conducive to disarmament.

"The only kind of talks the inspirers of NATO are agreed on are talks based on the notorious position of strength policy of the United States," Pravda said.

It added that if there were a foreign ministers meeting it would become a forum for more accusations against the Soviet Union.

The Soviet press is continuing a general attack on plans to establish rocket and missile bases in the NATO countries.

After the NATO conference agreed to a foreign ministers conference, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko made a speech to the Supreme Soviet which voted to reject the idea.

Ark-La Finds Gas Well Near Monroe, La.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. said today a "highly gas condensate" has been discovered in a Louisiana field as a result of Ark-La's first major wildcatting operation.

Don't Chapman, U. R. Stephens said the R. R. Fuller Well No. 1 about 12 miles from a main Ark-La pipeline near Monroe was brought in yesterday.

The well is in a field wholly owned by Ark-La.

"The R. R. Fuller is producing virtually casing head gasoline," Stephens said. "It is bringing in high quality gas and high quality liquid."

Stephens said two drill stem tests on a restricted choke produced at the rate of 750,000 cubic feet a day on Christmas Eve and 1½ million cubic feet daily yesterday.

Production began at a depth of 9,267 feet in what is known as the Collier Valley D horizon, reportedly the most prolific producing strata in north Louisiana.

"This is the first major wildcatting operation Ark-La has undertaken," Stephens said. "It follows our company commitment to legislative committees prior to enactment of fair field price legislation that we would try to reverse the trend of buying more gas than we produced."

Sparkman Says Administration Is Too Slow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said today the Eisenhower administration has been too slow in moving to counter the current economic slump.

Sparkman announced the Senate Housing subcommittee which he heads will start hearings soon to inquire, among other things, why the White House "waited so long" to release 177 million dollars which Congress had voted for military housing, urban renewal and cooperative housing programs.

The White House announced Monday it was releasing this money in a move interpreted as intended to help the economy in general and the slumping housing industry in particular.

Housing construction this year has dropped to 928,000 starts. The goal for the year had been 1.1 million.

"The biggest boost the administration could give the housing industry and the economy now," Sparkman said, "would be to loosen its tight money policy."

Security Risk Discharges Are Reviewed

NEW YORK (AP)—The Army is reviewing the cases of every soldier discharged as a security risk between 1948 and 1955, the New York Times said today.

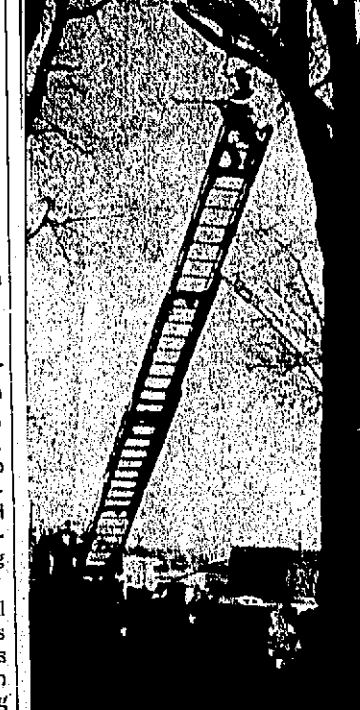

When the earlier findings now appear too harsh, the nature of the man's discharge has been upgraded or the security label removed, according to a Washington dispatch to the paper.

The Times story also said: "Changes have been made in almost half the cases reviewed so far and many former soldiers receiving undesirable discharges are not eligible."

The Army undertook the program voluntarily. The men affected generally know nothing of the review unless the service decides to improve their type of discharge.

In this event, the former soldier receives a letter from the adjutant general of the Army enclosing the improved discharge paper and asking him to throw the old one away. The letter also says the Army finance center will send him back pay due.

The military services have four general types of discharge: honorable; general under honorable conditions; less than honorable or under "other than" honorable conditions; and dishonorable.

Still Holiday for President and Family

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower remained in a holiday mood today—with no appointments scheduled after celebrating Christmas with his family at the White House.

He planned to stay in the White House today, press secretary James C. Hagerty said.

But it is expected the President and Mrs. Eisenhower will leave soon, possibly tomorrow for their Cotuit, Pa., farm. There, Eisenhower hopes to get some rest, mixed with work.

The President, like many another grandfather, played host to his family on Christmas. The Eisenhowers had turkey dinner with all the trimmings, in the evening in the second-floor living quarters.

Eisenhower and the First Lady did not attend church services. They had been to a pre-Christmas service Sunday. The National Presbyterian Church, where they usually worship, had a midnight service, but none on Christmas Day.

The President's son and daughter-in-law, Maj. and Mrs. John S. Eisenhower, arrived with their four children in the late afternoon. Two-year-old Mary Dean toddled ahead to be first into the arms of her grandmother for a

All Around Town

By The Star Staff

The day after Christmas, to those who returned to work this morning, will be a long one. . . . City Police Christmas Day is the longest day of the year. . . . only a few places are open downtown and practically no body is on the streets. . . . all in all it was a very quiet Christmas in this area with no serious accidents reported by either state, city or county officers. . . . in fact there was only one wreck in the county, that occurring near Saratoga when a Negro man turned his auto over. . . . he wasn't hurt and didn't even remember it, according to Sheriff Cook. . . . the Fire Department didn't have a single call yesterday despite the fire crackers that boomed throughout the day and into Christmas night. . . . although some establishments are open about the only things working as usual are the downtown parking meters.

Army Specialist third class Harmon D. Tynor, son of Mrs. Pauline Tynor of Hope, recently qualified as expert in firing the carbine in Van Nuys, Calif. . . . Tynor, 24, attended Hope High, entered the Army in February 1953 and was last stationed in Germany.

Weekend rainfall was recorded at the Experiment Station as .87 of an inch. . . . this brings the December total to 2.50 inches and the year's total to 79.30 inches or 18.53 inches more than the normal year which averages 61.35 inches. . . . this is very close to the all time record of 73.43 inches in 1892 and some over the modern record of 65.66 inches in one year in 1956.

More Than 200 Lose Lives in Holiday Wrecks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christmas traffic deaths climbed to the second highest total for a one-day holiday since World War II.

The final tabulation, including late reports of casualties caused by accidents that occurred between 6 p.m. Tuesday and midnight Wednesday, showed 209 traffic deaths, 27 in fires and 25 in the miscellaneous class for a total of 261.

The traffic toll more than doubled the toll for a nonholiday period of the same 30-hour duration, and exceeded the National Safety Council prediction of 180.

There have been two other one-day celebrations of the Christmas holiday since World War II, during one of them, 1947, the traffic toll was 170. During the other one, 1946, the toll was 253, a record for a one-day, 30-hour period.

"There must be a better way to celebrate Christmas on the highway than by piling up a death toll two and a half times as great as the toll for a nonholiday Wednesday at this time of the year," said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council.

"We can only hope that the shock of this needless toll will bring about sober thinking that may hold the New Year toll to a new low."

An Associated Press survey made for comparative purposes on the nonholiday 30-hour period from Dec. 10 through Dec. 11 showed 84 traffic deaths, 15 in fires and 27 miscellaneous accidental deaths for an over-all total of 126.

This year's traffic toll compared to the record of 253 for a one-day Christmas holiday period, in 1946. The low mark in traffic fatalities for a one-day Christmas period since World War II was 170 in 1947.

Last year's four-day Christmas holiday period set a new record in traffic deaths for any holiday period, with 704. The over-all toll of 884 during the same four days also was a record for any holiday period.

Only about half a dozen states reported no traffic deaths. Ohio and New York led the states in fatalities.

Daily Worker Red Newspaper, to Fold

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily Worker, for over ten, the best-known voice of communism in the United States, appears destined to go out of existence next week.

The National Executive Committee of the Communist party reportedly voted in a secret meeting last weekend to discontinue the paper as of next Tuesday. This move would leave only the Sunday paper, "The Worker," as the party newspaper in New York and the Eastern area.

But the paper's editor, John Gatos, said he did not regard the vote as binding and would try to continue publishing indefinitely.

big hello kiss. There were kisses all around as the President joined the group in the red-carpeted main hall of the White House.

Susan, who will be 6 Dec. 31, carried a big pink Christmas doll, which she proudly displayed for her grandparents.

But pert, blonde Mary Jean, in her white dress, was the center of attraction. The First Lady had to hold her hand to restrain her from dancing about.

The two Mrs. Eisenhowers both wore Christmas red dresses. The granddaughters were in party dresses with ribbon bows in their hair. Susan wore gray and white. Barbara Anne, 3, pink.

David, the oldest grandchild at 9, looked grown up in gray trousers, a blue blazer and striped bow tie.

The President, in a gray flannel suit and blue tie, was smiling, but not saying much, as the family moved into the East Room to pose for pictures in front of an 18-foot Christmas tree decorated with tinsel and white lights.

Mrs. Eisenhower, holding Mary Jean's hand, asked the little girl, "Can you say Merry Christmas?" Mary Jean mumbled something in response. The First Lady laughed and commented, "We don't understand what she says."

The picture-taking over. Mrs. Eisenhower suggested to the granddaughters, "Let's go up and see what's on the tree for you." There was no indication what gifts the Eisenhowers exchanged.

If It Isn't Mom Complaining About Baby's Bumps, It's Dad

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I are parents of a lovely 14-month-old boy. Our problem is this: Every time the baby hurts himself - it's my fault. My husband says I wasn't watching him, or if I did think once in awhile, these things wouldn't happen. It's a wonderful husband and father; but this constant think-business is getting me. I don't have eyes in the back of my head and I find it impossible to anticipate everything the baby will do. If I get a dressing down for a pinched finger, what will it be like if I have two or three more youngsters? I pride myself on keeping a well ordered home, and a well-kept and trained baby. I'm afraid if I get bawled out for not watching the baby, I have now, my son will turn out to be an only child.

Dear Dorothy: You can take this for whatever comfort it brings you. You have the sympathy and understanding of thousands of mothers clear across the country. Yours is indeed a universal problem. Reason won't accomplish anything but you might try this. Leave your husband alone with the baby some day when the child is particularly active and mischievous. See if, after two or three hours, you can return and find absolutely nothing wrong with baby or the house. Also, more children will be a solution, not a complication, to the problem. If your husband's attention is not concentrated on one child, but diverted to several, he'll naturally take a broader view of pinched fingers, etc.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend is leaving for foreign service soon, and wants me to marry him when he returns. I'm somewhat disturbed about his outlook on religion. I have been brought up in a religious atmosphere; he is very cynical about religion. I want to be married in church, he insists on a civil ceremony only. PENEY

Dear Penny: Religion should weld the home together; when it becomes a disrupting force - as would undoubtedly be the case with you, you must reconsider the possible marriage very carefully. It has little chance of being a successful one.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a middle aged, single woman and have met a man my own age through business. However, due to the tragic death of my high-school sweetheart, I have avoided all men. Now I'd like to go out with this man. I'm afraid of being self-conscious after avoiding male companionship all these years. A. M.

Dear A. M.: Shutting yourself off from the world was a very foolish thing, but why prolong it? You have a chance to rejoin the human race; take advantage of it. Forget about being self-conscious and leave something to your feminine instincts.

Dear Dorothy Dix: A jealous girl has been sending me anonymous letters concerning my girl friend. These letters, of course, are supposed to cause friction between us and eventually bring about a break. At first the whole thing seemed funny, and was good for a laugh. Now it's becoming annoying. We know who the girl is. Shall we tell her face to face that we know, or contact the police?

Dear Robert: Make it a personal contact, but be sure you know who the girl is. Better still, return any future letters to her, unopened.

A check of ages of chairmen for the past 60 years shows none of them younger than Mills' 48 years. However, when Oscar Underwood of Alabama became chairman in 1911, he was not yet 49. But he was a few months older than Mills.

Explorer in Antarctic Has Yule Dinner

LONDON (AP) - A Christmas dinner—two joints of meat—was delivered by plane to British explorer Dr. Vivian Fuchs and his party at or near South Ice, about 500 miles from the South Pole, headquarters of the transantarctic expedition, announced today.

The assumption was that Dr. Fuchs, caught in a bad weather trap for several weeks, would start a dash to the pole with his snow vehicles at any time.

Already approaching the pole from the other side of the antarctic land and ice mass was the New Zealand party of Sir Edmund Hillary. New Zealand dispatches said the Hillary party was about 325 miles from the pole.

Expedition headquarters here released a message, dated Dec. 22, from a squadron leader John Lewis at the Shackleton base of Dr. Fuchs' group.

"After loading 10 drums fuel tank off morning Dec. 22 for South Ice after hearing vehicles had arrived there. We found party in good spirits and eager to press on and avoid wasting time," the message said.

"Party showed signs of strain after last three weeks of hair-raising activities, but undaunted and in good heart."

"We cooked two joints of meat at Shackleton and took them to them for their Christmas dinner." Scientists here said that Dr. Fuchs, while eager to make up lost time, would hardly regard a race to the pole as a sporting event. He has been delayed not only by the difficulties of travel, but by the task of making scientific observations as he goes.

Northern fur seals in the Pacific are invulnerable swimmers, can migrate 5,000 miles at sea all winter.

100 Families Got $5 From Man

JONESBORO, Ark., (AP)—Santa visited 100 families here for the Christmas holiday and asked the same question each time: "Do you believe in Santa Claus?"

Regardless of the answer Santa handed out a $5 bill.

The $300 involved was given to the Rev. J. William Watson and C. Oral Lowe with orders by the anonymous donor to distribute the cash in $5 portions to needy families. There were no strings attached.

The ministers then hired a Santa, who began the rounds on Christmas Eve and wound up giving away all the money yesterday.

"Oh Lord, this is wonderful, I didn't have a cent," one recipient blurted to Santa.

big hello kiss. There were kisses all around as the President joined the group in the red-carpeted main hall of the White House.

Susan, who will be 6 Dec. 31, carried a big pink Christmas doll, which she proudly displayed for her grandparents.

But pert, blonde Mary Jean, in her white dress, was the center of attraction. The First Lady had to hold her hand to restrain her from dancing about.

The two Mrs. Eisenhowers both wore Christmas red dresses. The granddaughters were in party dresses with ribbon bows in their hair. Susan wore gray and white. Barbara Anne, 3, pink.

David, the eldest grandchild at 8, looked grown up in gray trousers, a blue blazer and striped bow tie.

The President, in a gray flannel suit and blue tie, was smiling, but not saying much, as the family moved into the East Room to pose for pictures in front of an 18-foot Christmas tree decorated with tinsel and white lights.

Mrs. Eisenhower, holding Mary Jean's hand, asked the little girl, "Can you say Merry Christmas?" Mary Jean mumbled something in response. The First Lady laughed and commented "We don't understand what she says."

The picture-taking over, Mrs. Eisenhower suggested to the grandchildren, "Let's go up and see what's on the tree for you."

There was no indication what gifts the Eisenhowers exchanged.

Warren G. Robinson, 22, of Lake City, whose body was found yesterday near his overturned car 18 miles east of Jonesboro.

Usher Kay Fortner 19, of Paragould, killed in a car-truck collision near Paragould Tuesday night.

state. However, that is a few years away yet and the present Arkansas House members, while aware of the situation, aren't worrying about what might happen that far ahead.

Mills, in taking over as head of the Ways and Means Committee, becomes that group's youngest leader in recent years - possibly the youngest ever.

A check of ages of chairmen for the past 60 years shows none younger than Mills, 48 years.

However, when Oscar Underwood of Alabama became chairman in 1911, he was not yet 40. But he was a few months older than Mills.

At Kansas' position actually is Foster.

The bride wore a waltz length dress of white tulle and tulle, with a white velvet hat overlaid with pearls and sequins. On a Bible she carried an orchid.

Miss Sharon LaRue, Winberly was maid of honor. She wore a black dress embroidered in pink and matching accessories.

Jesse Duckett served as best man.

A reception was held in the home following the wedding. The table was covered with an imported, hand drawn linen cloth and centered with a crenoline tree of white, silver and gold on an antique cut-glass cake stand flanked by tall white tapers in antique cut-glass holders. Assisting at the reception were: Miss Dale Brown and Mrs. Earl Down, Mrs. Howard Pritchard and Mrs. Aubrey Foster.

Mrs. Gilbert Brown was in charge of the bride's book.

For her going away costume, the bride changed into a black and white velvet suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was an orchid.

After a short wedding trip, Mrs. Brown will return to Mena where she is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and Mr. Brown will return to Germany to complete his tour of duty with the United States Army. He will return to the States in August.

HAND-PICKED for MURDER

By Robert Martin

CHAPTER XXXIII

Hugo Howell was in fact away starting down at me. He held a revolver pointed at my chest. His little red-rimmed eyes never left my face, and the gun didn't waver. His beefy body swayed a little, but he held the gun steady. As if his arm and the hand which held it were connected to his body on a swivel ball bearing.

I dropped my gun.

"Foolish you," Howell said. "Sneaked around — I know a path. Used to come here a lot. I could have shot you just now. Killed you dead but —" He waved the bottle — "I drink. Shouldn't you in the back like that — it didn't seem right. If I'd got you with the first shot, you'd be standing by the tree. It wouldn't have been so bad. You were standing there, expecting me. When you did it would have been —" He looked at me and I saw like Ambrose and that woman.

"I said, 'Nothing would do you any good.'"

"You was in it, and I know you was, and that's why I followed you out here. Ain't that right?"

I nodded and stood slowly erect, being careful not to make any sudden moves or to get closer to him. "I saw where you picked the gun on the tree," I said. "You fooled me, all right. I was sure somebody had taken a shot at you—maybe the killer of Ambrose. Let. But you staged it, didn't you, to throw me off the track?"

"He nodded slowly. Then he fished in a pocket of his trousers and extended his hand so that I could see what he held. "There she is," he said. "the assembly, yet, and if I'd wanted to get rid of you then I could have done it another way, easy."

"With an ice pick?"

"Maybe," he said absently, as if he were only half listening. "I think I'll dig a hole back in the woods a ways, back from the road. Then I'll take Wayne back to Detroit with me."

Wayne may be charged with murder.

He moved his head slowly from side to side. "Oh, no, he won't not with you out of the picture. They can't prove anything now."

I was still alive, so I kept talking. "Have you forgotten about Chief of Police Campbell? He knows that you were not in jail all night, and he might begin adding two and two."

"He might," Howell admitted, "but he won't do anything about it. He's in as deep as I am. I said him to let me out of jail that first night, a hundred bucks. Campbell won't dare talk."

"You wouldn't have had to say that," I said. "Her marriage to Wayne wasn't legal."

He looked at me reproachfully. "I know it now. You should have told me yesterday."

"I wanted to talk to her first," I said. "I was in jail last night."

He sighed heavily. "Water over the dam now. When I hear she and Wayne was leaving today, I had to work fast. I knew she was alone at the strange last night—the chief's daughter told us, remember?" He paused and shivered slightly. "I never thought I could do a thing like that. But it's funny — after Ambrose, it wasn't so bad. And I had nothing to lose — they can only burn you once." He frowned and his eyes grew ugly. "But Ambrose asked for it. I tried to do the right thing by him, paid him regular every month since I sold the shop, but he kept wanting more and more. All I had left was Wayne's trust money, and that Wayne was after that. They was all after me, like a pack of hounds."

I took a slow step toward him. He backed up quickly. The gun steadied and he muttered, "You want it now?"

I tried to grin at him. "You're upset. Maybe we can make a deal." But even as I spoke I knew that my words were like a baby's wail in the wilderness.

CHAPTER XXXIV

"No deals, Bennett. No, sir. I made a deal with Ambrose, and it didn't work," said Howell. "Blackmail," I asked.

"Ambrose knew I'd cut some corners on a government job and faked inspection reports. And he knew about some other stuff—income tax returns. I tried to be reasonable with Ambrose, paid him plenty to keep quiet, but, oh no, he had to keep hounding me, and harping about going to the F.B.I. So I got him drunk, pretended to be drunk myself, and steered him into my room and my bed. The ice pick went in real easy. I always carry one in my bag, along with a battle opener, whisky and stuff."

"Do you carry two ice picks?"

"Naw, just one," he said impatiently. "I got the one I used on the woman from the butcher at the cottage. I had this gun—but when I sneaked in the back door I saw the ice pick on top of the ice box. So I used it." He looked at me cautiously, squinting his little eyes. "How'd you know I wasn't in jail last night?"

I nodded at his shot. "When they locked you up last night you were wearing a blue shirt. This morning you're wearing a green one. I began to wonder if you were in jail all night, after all."

"Well, well," he sneezed. "Pretty smart, huh?"

I shook my head. "No, I almost missed it. This morning, I began to wonder about the bullet hitting the rock beside of you yesterday afternoon. If somebody had been shooting to kill, he had all the time in the world to make a good job of it. But there was just that one shot."

As I talked I watched him, wondering how much chance I'd have if I made a dive for blue. "You ain't a bad guy, Bennett," he said. "You're just in the wrong business. You're right about the shirt. I got some of the woman's blood on the blue one, so I sneaked up to my room at the hotel and changed before I went back to the jail and let Campbell lock me up again. I wish I had a drink."

"Need courage?"

"Naw—it don't take courage to kill somebody." He eyed me a moment, swaying gently, and then said, "I been leery of you ever since you came into my room and searched me the night I killed Ambrose. You thought I was dead drunk, passed out, didn't you? Well, I wasn't not as drunk as I acted. I wanted to be locked up, see? The first night and last night."

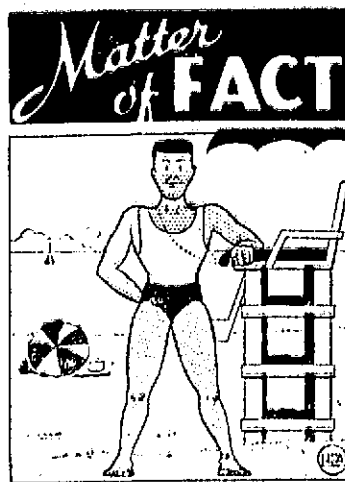

"So that's why you picked on Otto?"

He didn't answer. I wondered how long it would be before he got tired of talking.

"A lousy hundred bucks was Campbell's price," he sneezed. "It looked like a grand to him. I was so I set it up that first night. After he let me out, all I did was go to a motel outside of town, slept a couple of hours and then went back to the jail, like I'd promised. I knew I'd have to kill that woman, sooner or later, but I wasn't quite ready yet—I was just setting up my alibi, like I said. Well, Campbell wanted to give me back the money, said he'd been wrong to take it and let me out, that he must have been crazy. I took the money."

"Go on," I said.

"Well, last night after I got locked up like I wanted, I gave Campbell the same story. The business deal was still hanging Biologically speaking, man could be cataloged, according to the divisions and branches of the tree of life, like this: homo sapiens, hominid, anthropoid, primate, mammal, vertebrate, chordate, animal. This classification means that "the knowing man" is the only member of the animal family that has eyesight, large brains, hands that can grasp, and can stand upright. fire in Sandusky and I offered him the hundred again. But he'd really got religion and said no more of that. Then I put the screws on him. I told him I'd squeal about him letting me out the first night — and prove it by the guy at the motel where I stayed, the guy that ran it. I told him I'd tell the town council and he'd be out of a job. He told me to shut up and left me in the cell."

He paused and laughed softly, remembering. "But I wasn't locked yet, no sir. I flopped on the bank and after a while I began to groan and carry on, like I was sick. Campbell came back and looked at me, asked what was the matter. I kept groaning and moaning. He unlocked the cell door, and that was what I was waiting for. I jumped up and slugged him on the jaw. He broke him out cold. Then I locked him in the cell with his key, got my car from behind the hotel and scooted out here. I took down my gun rig from the tree and then went to Marianna Beach. Found the woman alone, 'naw' did what I had to do. Inside of two hours I was back at the jail. I let Campbell out of the cell, told him I was sorry, but that I just had to see that man in Sandusky, and I offered him the hundred again. He wouldn't take it, and he didn't say a word."

I said suddenly, "Did you slug me, down on the pier, the first night I was in town? You could have, because you were probably

Good Farm Prices Seen All Winter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today it expects farm prices for the remainder of the winter to continue to average above those of a year earlier.

In a report on the demand and price situation for farm commodities, the agency said nothing has happened in recent weeks that would indicate any change from the recent price pattern.

Prices in November averaged three per cent above a year earlier. A report giving December price averages will be issued by the department Dec. 30.

The report said cash receipts for farm marketings in the first 11 months of this year totaled 27 billion dollars, two per cent less than in the same period in 1956. It said receipts from livestock and livestock products were up 5 per cent, largely because of higher prices for cattle and hogs.

But crop receipts were down 10 per cent, reflecting lower prices and substantially smaller marketings, particularly of cotton.

However, government payments for the full year 1957 are expected to be close to a billion dollars, compared with 554 millions last year. The increase is due to substantially larger soil bank payments this year.

The report said that after Jan. 1, marketings of hogs will be substantially above their rather small volume of early 1957, and that weights will be up.

As a result, it said, prices may weaken. The normal mid-winter price advance will probably be postponed until later than usual. The report said discounts for heavy hogs, which in December were not considered excessive, will doubtless widen.

out of jail by then."

He looked puzzled. "Slug you?"

I didn't even know who you was until the next day."

I believed him. There was no reason for him to lie about it now.

"Well, Mr. Bennett," he said heavily. "I want to get to that meeting at the sheriff's office and see what I can do for Wayne. You just won't show up, and nobody will ever see you again. I'll tell 'em you took me back to the hotel and drove away. You didn't say where you was going, which is the truth." He laughed, a little wildly and held the gun at arm's length. "I hate this, but I can't help it. How do you want that I should do it? Like you are now, or do you wanta turn around?"

I heard my voice say, "I'm coming for you. Be sure and shoot straight."

ALL IN THE FAMILY—When Jose Ferrer, producing a new musical in New York, needed a good demonstration record of the show's songs to impress potential financial backers, Rosemary Clooney flew in from Hollywood and recorded all of them. Everyone was impressed by her performance, but Jose just brushed it off, saying "Really! I just got the cheapest singer I could find—my wife."

LIGHTNING RESPONSE—The detonation of a depth charge in a remote area of Chesapeake Bay caused lightning from a low cloud to discharge into the 300-foot waterspout heaved upward by the explosion. The charge had been placed underwater beneath a cloudless sky, explained the Naval Ordnance Laboratory in Silver Spring, Md., but overcast had built up two hours later when the explosion took place. One of three consecutive bolts that struck the spout was caught in this shot by a high-speed camera.

INTERCHURCH CENTER—America's first national headquarters building for many of its churches will be a reality by 1960. Architect's presentation above shows how the new 20-million-dollar Interchurch Center will look upon its completion. The block-long, 19-story building is being erected in upper Manhattan in New York, on a site made available by John D. Rockefeller Jr., next door to famed Riverside Church overlooking the Hudson River. The structure will house the National Council of Churches and a score of other church and interchurch agencies. The building will also have underground parking for 130 cars, and a pedestrian tunnel will provide access to Riverside Church.

PANORAMIC DESIGN—This wide angle view of the interior of a 1958 Chrysler is not an advertising stunt, but a practical application of photography to automobile engineering by the Chrysler Corp. The company says that one sweeping picture like this eliminates hours of yardstick measuring and slide rule figuring. The camera was mounted where the driver's head would be. Windsor, Ontario, can be seen at the left edge of the picture, with Detroit's skyline visible through the windshield. The exposure time was 14 seconds.

REDS CLAIM RECORD—The massive new Soviet helicopter MI-6 takes to the air over Moscow. Russia claims the copter set a new world's record, lifting a 12-ton load to an altitude of 2,400 meters (7,872 feet), eclipsing the former record of 2,000 meters (6,500 feet) set by the U.S. Air Force.

TANK KILLER—This new nine-centimeter long-range anti-tank recoilless rifle is readied for testing at Stockholm, Sweden. The new Swedish weapon, which is the equivalent of a 90-millimeter gun, is expected to be a powerful addition to the nation's arsenal because of its light weight and wallop. When removed from its two-wheeled carriage in the background, the anti-tank gun weighs 176 pounds.

STUDY RUSSIAN—The government reports that four out of 10 school children in the Soviet Union are studying English, raising the obvious question, "Where does the U.S. stand?" At least 26 children in Ohio are being introduced to the Russian language. Here, Johanne McGinnis and Chris Schroeder, fourth graders at Kent University School, go over the pronunciation of some Russian words with their instructor, Dr. Joseph Schadek. The two children are among a group of 26 fourth, fifth and sixth graders studying Russian as an experiment begun in October at the University School. The course is the only one of its kind involving Ohio grade school children.

A FLEET IN ONE—Out for its shakedown cruise, the world's largest birchbark canoe skins over the waters of Golden Lake, in Ontario, Canada, propelled by a total of 16 paddlers. In the bow of the giant craft is 85-year-old Matt Bernard, who supervised its building. The canoe, a copy of those used by early fur traders, is 39 feet long and six feet wide. It will be shipped to Ottawa for display in the National Museum.

FLATTENED—The owner of this Volkswagen will never be able to fix this flat as his tiny auto lies squashed beneath a giant truck at Darmstadt, Germany. The truck skidded and toppled over on the auto which had stopped by the side of the road because of another accident ahead. The Volkswagen driver, only occupant of the car, leaped to safety just in time and escaped unhurt.

DEEP-SEA DRIVER—Pvt. Malcolm D. Zachary, Houlika, Miss., proves that it's no trick to drive a jeep through five feet of water. The demonstration is part of an Army course in reading vehicles for fording rivers. Zachary is an instructor at the Automotive Maintenance School, Fort Chaffee, Ark.

GRIM REMINDERS—The sight of these crosses in a cemetery at Einhausen, Germany, at the side of the Autobahn between Frankfurt and Mannheim, ought to give passing drivers pause for thought. This particular section of the road has been called the "Highway of Death" because more than 200 persons have been killed on it in the last five years. It stretches for miles straight as an arrow, tempting drivers to excessive speeds.

"SAND TRAP" FOR INTERCONTINENTAL MISSILES—This is an artist's conception of a method of destroying enemy hydrogen missiles in flight, just suggested by Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, noted nuclear physicist authority. The scheme makes use of "sand shrapnel"—tiny pellets a fraction of an inch in diameter. Hitting an intercontinental missile traveling thousands of miles an hour, the "sand" could do devastating damage. Dr. Lapp suggested that radars and electronic calculators would get a "fix" on the ICBM's trajectory some 10 minutes before its arrival time. Word would be flashed to defense units near all possible targets. Rockets carrying the sand shrapnel and atomic dispersal charges would be fired at once. At the proper height, the rockets would explode, scattering the particles in vast swarms like pellets from a giant shotgun and tearing the enemy missile to pieces.

Oklahoma, Duke
Now in Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Oklahoma, highly rated by the oddsmakers, and Duke, highly regarded by Sooner Coach Bud Wilkinson, arrived today to start on-the-scene preparations for the Orange Bowl clash.

Oklahoma was reckoned as 13 points better than the Blue Devils of Durham, N. C., in the Jan. 1 game but Wilkinson, as usual, refused to go along with the crowd.

"Duke has played a difficult schedule most successfully," said Wilkinson. "They are an exceptionally sound, strong, big football team, excellently coached by Bud Murray."

No activity was slated today for

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A football

was the Christmas present actress
Pat Mowry received from ex-Nutter Duke quarterback Paul Hornung, now with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

The attractive brunette, who was Miss New Hampshire in the 1955 Miss Universe contest, said yesterday that she and Hornung have no immediate marriage plans because he is to report soon for induction into the military service.

Frank Leahy
May Coach
at A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) —
Texas A&M thought it had fanned Frank Leahy, former coach of Notre Dame, as its head coach and athletic director but it wasn't sure today.

Leahy says his doctor will have to say so first.

President M. T. Harrington of Texas A&M recused a statement that the former Notre Dame coach had agreed to a three-year contract at $16,000 a year — $1,000 more than was paid Paul Bryant, who resigned to go to Alabama — plus rent-free use of a college-owned residence. He said formal signing was expected by the end of the week, that Leahy was in a hospital at his home in Michigan City, Ind., recovering from an ankle fracture.

However, at the hospital, Leahy said, "I told them it was 99 per cent definite" but that he was going to Chicago to see Dr. Cliff Barborka, who treated him for a stomach ailment three years ago.
That ailment had caused him to retire from coaching in 1953 after compiling a fabulous record as head man at Notre Dame.

Leahy said he thought a final agreement wasn't supposed to be reached until Saturday.

"I wouldn't want to go to them in poor health," Leahy said. "It wouldn't be right for them or for Frank Leahy. I feel he understood that."

It appears A&M won't know until Saturday whether Leahy is to come here.

He said that if he does he will bring Bob McBride, his assistant coach at Notre Dame, with him.
He added that the house the college would furnish him was too small for his family of eight children, five at home.

North Downs
South With a Field Goal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A crackling duel between passer Jim Ninowski and runner Dick Christy highlighted the Shrine's Christmas night North-South college all-star football game. But it was a 36-yard field goal by Dave Kaiser that produced the North's 23-20 victory.

Kaiser is the same Michigan State end who booted a three-pointer that gave the Spartans a 17-14 triumph over UCLA in the 1956 Rose Bowl game.

Ninowski, Michigan State quarterback, turned in a record passing performance for this charity game by completing 13 of 23 throws for 295 yards and a touchdown. Michigan State end Bob Jewett hauled in eight aerials for 201 yards and a score.

Christy, running back, he scored twice and raced 70 yards from scrimmage and 90 more with punts—brought even more cheers from the crowd of 28,303 than Ninowski's passes. The All America halfback from North Carolina State was the key man in a whirlwind rally that almost turned defeat into victory for the Rebels.

After Kaiser's field goal late in the third period put the North ahead 23-13, Christy, who scored earlier on a 62-yard run from scrimmage, flashed down the side line with a punt 52 yards for an other touchdown.

Then, with about two minutes left, he scooted 47 yards to the North 33 with another punt. After an exchange of fumbles, he scored a 23-yard pass from Arkansas' George Walker at the 2. Powers-ful Jimmy Taylor, Louisiana State fullback, could get only one yard and the final whistle blew before the South could run another play.

either team. But tomorrow Murray will start twice-a-day drills at Miami Stadium and Wilkinson will send the Sooners through a workout at the University of Miami field in suburban Coral Gables.

Senior Bowl to Feature Nation's Best Backs

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The 19 backs who will compete in the ninth annual senior bowl game Jan. 11 here, ranged or passed for a fantastic 72.3 miles gained during the 1957 football season.

Collectively the 19 amassed total rushing and passing yardage of 12,823 yards on 2,272 plays for a 5.4-average each time one of them handled the ball.

On rushing alone they picked up 3,885 yards on 1,972 plays and a 5.4-average, including those times the five quarterbacks were dumped behind the scrimmage while trying to locate a receiver.

Excluding the quarterbacks, the backs averaged a healthy 6 yards per carry.

Washington Redskins Coach Joe Kuharich's North team ball carriers gained 300 more yards on total offense but the South squad of Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns scored 19 more touchdowns.

Leading the rushing pack is Colorado's Bob Strinsky, 185-pound speedster who netted 1,097 yards on 183 carries for a 5.9-yard average. He will perform for the North.

Second among the Yankee rushers is Oregon's Jim Shanley, who picked up 604 yards on 168 rushes for a 4.4-yard average. Shanley will perform in the Rose Bowl before coming here for the Senior Bowl.

The South's rushing leader is Orange Bowl-bound Oklahoma back Clendon Thomas, who boasts a 5.4-yard average from 816 yards on 130 carries.

Fullback Jimmy Taylor of Louisiana State, Southeastern Conference rushing and scoring leader, is second high among the South ball carriers with 762 yards on 162 tries and a 4.7-yard average.

The North's Jim Ninowski, of Michigan State, completed the most passes. The 195 pounder connected on 45 of 79 attempted for 718 yards and six touchdowns.

Arkansas' quarterback George Walker, who will direct the South offense with Raymond Brown of Mississippi had 35 completions of 63 attempted for 587 yards and four touchdowns. Brown hit on 24 of 53 for 308 yards and six scores.

The top pass receivers also are members of the North team. They are Fred Dugan of Dayton (Ohio), who caught 37 for 548 yards, and Jim Gibbons of Iowa, who grabbed 36 of 587 yards.

All America End Jimmy Phillips of Auburn is the South leader with 15 for 337 yards and four touchdowns.

Of the 50 men named for the Senior Bowl, 45 will play in earlier post-season games before reporting here. Most will start during Jan. 6.

The Missile
No Doubt Here
for Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day of the ballistic missile which has both intercontinental range and near pinpoint accuracy is just about here.

To reach this development stage, scientists have duplicated the principles of the universe and measured temperatures 10 times hotter than the sun.

They have developed guidance instruments which navigate without reference to any point on earth, instruments so sensitive that the weight of a lint speck from a polishing cloth will spin them off course by several degrees.

There apparently are well-founded reports that the Sperry Gyroscope Co. of Great Neck, N. Y., has produced a device known as the accelerometer which can detect—and correct—a deviation in the flight path of a missile of one hundredth of one degree.

This means that a missile fired at the moon some 238,000 miles away would hit a target no longer than a football field.

Further, these instruments are sturdy enough to be packed inside a missile which accelerates at 10 times the force of gravity.

From the military standpoint two major problems have had to be mastered:

1. How to guide a missile from Point A to Point B 5,000 miles or more distant with near-pinpoint accuracy.

2. How to bring back an object ranging 600 to 1,000 miles in space without having it burned to a cinder by atmospheric friction.

To solve the first problem — at least theoretically — scientists have taken the gyroscope, which employs the principles of the universe, and incorporated it into the navigation system known as "inertial guidance."

With this system a missile, an airplane, a ship or submarine can be directed to its destination without compass, radio or radar and without a glimpse of earth, sun or stars.

The solution to the second problem involved an almost incredible search for a material—and how to shape that material once found —which had the ability:

Tall Man Is Assured of a Busy 1958

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here's one actor who can look forward to a busy season in 1958.

There appears to be no letup in the movie horror cycle, and that could mean good business for Ed Wolff. Unfortunately, not many actors can share the prosperity because Ed's work is rather specialized. He's 7 feet, 4 inches tall. I saw Ed when he was playing the title role in "The Colossus of New York." And what a colossus he was.

He was decked out in a weird outfit that brought his height to nine feet. Atop his head was a horrible contraption of latex and sponge rubber that resembled a human brain. The gimmick was that he was supposed to be a mechanical man operated by a brain taken from a brilliant scientist. "Yes, I get tired of all the cracks people make about my height," he said. "But I don't really mind too much. I like people, and that makes a lot of difference."

Born in Trinidad, Colo., 50 years ago, Ed came to Hollywood in 1925 as a seven-foot stripling. He had heard he could find work in movies and he did pretty well in comedy and circus scenes. But there weren't enough jobs to live

Inquest in Stabbing of England Man

ENGLAND, Ark., (AP)—Coroner Fred Berry of Lonoke will hold an inquest today into the fatal stabbing of Hiawatha Shavers, 32, who was killed yesterday at his home three miles east of here.

England Police Chief Joe Foster said Shavers was stabbed by his 38-year-old wife, Mayola, who claimed she struck in self-defense.

Shavers died of a wound in the heart. The death instrument was a kitchen butcher knife.

Foster quoted Mrs. Shavers as saying her husband had a habit of getting drunk on Christmas and then beating her.

Mrs. Shavers was not held.

on and he turned to painting.

"I'm vice president of the Hollywood painters local," he said. "I paint houses when I'm not working in pictures, and it works out pretty well. I can paint most ceilings without using a ladder."

He comes from a tall family. His father having been a seven-footer and his mother over six. He has a brother who is over seven feet in business here, and a 8-foot-4 sister who works for the State Department in Greece. Ed's wife is five feet tall.

"No, we never go dancing," he said. "I don't like to dance. When ever I try it, every small girl on the dance floor comes up and wants to dance with me. It's embarrassing."
